THE COURT: Good morning.

MS. DAWSON: Good morning, Your Honor. Cari Dawson,

THE COURT: Welcome.

MR. SLATER: Good morning. Matthew Slater, Cleary

Gottlieb, on behalf of Robert Bosch GmbH and Robert Bosch LLC.

Thank you.

THE COURT: Thank you.

Well, good morning. Let me advise you, as I'm sure you are all aware, that we are subject to CourtCall. That is, a number of people have called in this morning and are participating in the audio portion of the hearing by way of CourtCall. And we welcome you.

I received a proposed agenda. And the first item on that agenda is an update on settlement discussions.

As we left this matter on March 24th, I said to the parties that by April 21st, today, I wanted a concrete plan for addressing the issue of the cars on the road that are out of compliance with environmental regulations.

I am extremely pleased to report that the parties have come up with a concrete plan by today's date. And I would like to publicly thank them and also to disclose the nature of the agreements that have been arrived at.

I have received information that the parties have authorized the settlement master, Director Mueller, to inform me and report publicly that the United States, on behalf of the Environmental Protection Agency, the EPA, the California Air Resources Board, also known as CARB, in conjunction with the California Attorney General's Office and Volkswagen have reached an agreement in principle that addresses most of the affected cars.

In particular, they have reached an agreement in principle as to what to do about the approximate 480,000 2-liter engine cars on the road and the associated environmental consequences resulting from the excess emissions from these vehicles.

It is my understanding that the Federal Trade Commission supports the agreement in principle, pending final Commission approval.

It is also my understanding that the agreement will give consumers several options, including the option to have Volkswagen buy back their vehicle; and, subject to governmental approval after further testing, the option to have the consumer's vehicle modified in accordance with the agreement; and for those consumers who have leased their car, to cancel the lease and return the car to Volkswagen.

The consumers will not have to elect which option to pursue until the consumer has had the opportunity to fully evaluate the details of each option. There is nothing for the consumer or their counsel to do until they receive the actual formal notice.

I am also pleased to report that the Plaintiffs' Steering Committee has also reached an agreement in principle with Volkswagen. The combination of these agreements include payment of substantial compensation to the consumer class members in connection with the car buy back, the car modification, and cancellation of lease options I have previously discussed.

In addition, the agreement will fully address any excess emissions of NOx coming from these vehicles, and the environmental consequences from these excess emissions, by establishing a fund for appropriate remediation efforts. In addition to all these other matters, Volkswagen will be required to commit other funds to promote green automotive technology.

So, Mr. Van Eaton, on behalf of the governmental entities, do you agree with what I have just recited as the agreements in principle?

MR. VAN EATON: Yes, Your Honor. That absolutely is correct. And I wanted to emphasize, the Justice Department remains under the impression that the terms are confidential and subject to an existing court order requiring confidentiality of the terms.

THE COURT: I will address that.

MR. VAN EATON: Thank you, Your Honor.

One other note, that the terms would not become effective unless and until the parties are able to reduce this to a consent decree, upon which we would then seek public comment at that time.

Thank you.

THE COURT: Absolutely. Thank you.

Ms. Cabraser, on behalf of Plaintiffs' Steering Committee.

MS. CABRASER: Yes, Your Honor, that is correct. We have a ways to go with respect to documentation, class notice, the approval process, but we are now able to start on that way.

THE COURT: On behalf of the Volkswagen entities.

MR. GIUFFRA: Yes, Your Honor. I'd like to first thank the Court and Director Mueller for all you've done to promote this process. There's nothing like a deadline to focus persons' attention.

We're not aware of another MDL that's moved as quickly as this one. I think we first met in December, and now we're at this point four months later.

And I think that reflects that Volkswagen is committed to winning back the trust of its customers, its dealers, its regulators, and all Americans. And we think that these agreements are an important step forward on the road to making things right.

And, as Your Honor indicated, these agreements and the settlements that we hope will result will compensate fully all customers and remediate all environmental issues. 1 So we think they're good for consumers, they're good for the environment, 2 and they're good for Volkswagen. 3 And thank you, Your Honor. 4 5 THE COURT: Thank you. Mr. Giuffra, you commented, I think, at the last hearing, 6 7 that you had never worked so hard in the last 30 days. I think that was before March 24th. And I wanted to ask because this 8 9 is a status report. 10 (Laughter) 11 THE COURT: I wanted to get an update on that and find out whether in the month between March and April you exceeded 12 Is that correct? 13 that commitment. MR. GIUFFRA: I think it's fair to say, Your Honor. 14 15 In fact, we were all at Director Mueller's offices at literally 16 3 o'clock in the morning on Saturday. We were working all 17 weekend. And I dare to think about the number of hours I 18 probably worked in the last month. 19 THE COURT: So you did exceed it. 20 MR. GIUFFRA: Close to 400, Your Honor. 21 THE COURT: That's perfect. 22 (Laughter) And I want to just simply tell you that 23 THE COURT: 24 it's my expectation -- I'm going to address this now -- it's my 25 expectation that even in this coming month you will be able to best your record again. 1 (Laughter) 2 And we, the sports minded of us, call that THE COURT: 3 a hat trick because you'll have three in a row. 4 5 (Laughter) THE COURT: And I appreciate that. Your family may 6 7 not, but I appreciate that. And I think all the parties do. So thank you. 8 9 MR. GIUFFRA: Thank you, Your Honor. And hopefully I'll get some of the summer off. 10 11 THE COURT: Some of the summer off. Well, it will all depend on how one defines summer. 12 13 (Laughter) MR. GIUFFRA: Thank you very much, Your Honor. 14 THE COURT: Okay. So, as Mr. Giuffra and the parties 15 16 have pointed out, there is a definite momentum to resolving 17 these issues. As Ms. Cabraser points out, there is still a lot 18 of work to be done in terms of the details, in terms of the 19 documentation. 20 So in order to bring this to a successful conclusion, I want to set some deadlines for the public disclosure of these 21 documents and, of course, for the review by the public and 22 23 those interested parties of these agreements. First, the United States shall file any consent decrees 24 25 memorializing their agreements with Volkswagen on or before June 21st, 2016. That is in about 60 days.

Second, the Plaintiffs' Steering Committee shall file a motion for preliminary approval of the settlement of the consumer class action complaint on or before June 21st, 2016.

The Court then will hold a hearing on the preliminary approval motion on July 26, 2016, at 8:00 a.m.

These filings will be public. And the public will have an opportunity to fully review and evaluate the proposed agreements before they are approved or acted upon by the Court.

However, in the meantime, while the final documents and details are being negotiated, and clients are being consulted, it is critically important, as the Justice Department points out, all governmental entities point out, that the negotiations and the tentative agreements remain confidential.

Therefore, I am ordering all parties, the United States, the Plaintiffs' Steering Committee and Volkswagen, to continue to keep the contents of the discussions and any proposed agreements confidential until they are filed with the Court.

And today I am signing an order that says that.

I understand that the parties may have already agreed on the proposed order. I will ask you to file that today so I may review it and, if appropriate, enter it.

Yes.

MR. VAN EATON: Absolutely. We will send that to chambers as soon as the hearing concludes.

Thank you.

THE COURT: Again, I want to emphasize perhaps something that is not -- I think it's worthy of further emphasis, is that the fact that there is confidentiality in the negotiation of the agreements in no way is intended to suggest that the public and interested parties will not have an opportunity to review and comment on any proposed agreement. That will take place. But while they are being negotiated, it is essential that they remain confidential.

There's, sort of, a second reason, if I might just point out, which is, this is a consumer class action in which there are many, many people affected by it. A number of people who may have no familiarity with litigation or class actions or the court processes. Yet these people who have purchased these vehicles are very concerned about what will happen with them financially and what will happen with their vehicle.

And I find it a disservice to have information about where people are in terms of negotiations sort of floated out there, which these consumers believe are probably the terms of any final agreement. It doesn't serve them well. It gives them some concern. It gives them some suggestion that perhaps maybe their particular concerns won't be addressed.

And that doesn't further either the settlement process, nor does it further the decision-making processes that they themselves will have to be engaged in, in a determination of whether or not a settlement is appropriate for them.

And so I ask the parties, in the interests of everyone who is affected by this -- and I think the general public is affected by this -- to withhold judgment as to what is the appropriate settlement until they are presented with a proposed final settlement.

Once they're presented with those documents, I will encourage the public and encourage the interested parties to make their views known. But until then, there is truly nothing for them to comment on at this point.

Now, there are obviously several other issues that I have not discussed this morning. Nor have I addressed them. And, indeed, I am sure you are aware there are approximately 90,000 cars with 3-liter engines. As well, there are the issues of fines and penalties.

It is the Court's expectation that the parties, in addition to finalizing the agreements that I've just discussed, will work expeditiously in resolving these outstanding issues.

Now, I have set deadlines which are aggressive. In my opinion, the parties have met these deadlines. And they did so only because all of them, as reported by Director Mueller, put in extraordinary effort and hours, seven days a week, 14-hour-plus days over the last two weeks, including up to and through yesterday.

Without the cooperation of the Department of Justice, the

     The Federal Trade Commission and Volkswagen, none of this would have occurred today. So I want to thank you very much.

          And not leaving things to chance, I'm going to order

          Thank you very much for coming.

          Yes, Mr. Van Eaton.
