

Medical Malpractice

Bailey Glasser lawyers advocate for people experiencing pain, suffering, and loss due to malpractice during medical care, surgeries, or procedures which have changed their lives forever. Our medical malpractice team has over 100 years of combined experience understanding and representing individuals and families who have suffered a devastating outcome as a result of medical negligence.

We have tried over one hundred medical malpractice cases to verdict. Our firm's trial experience allows us to take an aggressive approach in obtaining the highest dollar value for our clients either through negotiation or verdict.

A study performed by one of the most prestigious medical centers in the United States found that medical negligence is the 3rd leading cause of death in America. In addition, medical errors also account for billions of dollars in losses.

At Bailey Glasser, we understand navigating the complex healthcare system is a daunting task for victims and families of victims who have suffered needless losses as a result of improper medical care. We are here to help. We listen to our clients' unique experiences and losses, and create a plan tailored to your needs which provides the compensation you deserve to try to put your life back together.

Through a team approach, our lawyers and staff maximize recovery for our clients through deep experience with numerous medical conditions, illnesses, surgeries, and procedures. We are aggressive, but strategic, in order to minimize costs and maximize any settlement and/or judgment.

We care about our clients. Our team guides our clients through the legal system, but never forgets our representation involves listening to our clients and their needs.

Because the expense of litigating and trying medical malpractice cases is often beyond a client's economic means, we bear all of the costs of pursuing these cases. We only accept payment when our clients are successful in obtaining a recovery.

Our lawyers handle matters in most states but can also connect you with other attorneys who can assist with your case without any additional cost to you.
