

Not In My House: Keeping Children and Teens Safe From Online Predators

03.25.2021

As the pandemic continues, our children and teens are spending even more time online – and so are Internet predators. The tablets and phones in your youngsters’ hands daily may pose greater dangers than you realize. Now, more than ever before, parents, grandparents, teachers, and others who care for children/teens must stay informed and proactive against the risks presented by websites, new applications, and even texting.

During this important 30-minute webinar, BG Attorney and Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) Sharon Iskra discusses these escalating concerns and shares a practical toolkit from trusted resources to help you protect your youngster.
