

Alabama man files lawsuit against gun maker Taurus; claims safety defect killed son

11.18.2015

The lawsuit filed against Taurus International over the shooting death of 11-year-old D.J. Simms was featured in The Birmingham News.

The lawsuit, filed by Bailey Glasser's David Selby II and Todd Wheelles from Morris, Haynes, Wheels, Knowles & Nelson, is among a growing number of cases filed against Taurus International claiming that some of its pistols have defective safety systems that cause them to fire when dropped or jarred.
