

Bailey Glasser Welcomes Britney Littles

07.27.2020

Washington, DC, July 27, 2020 – The national law firm Bailey Glasser LLP has hired Britney A. Littles as an associate in its Washington, DC office. Britney represents clients in corporate matters, assists in investigations, and handles litigation ranging from commercial disputes to criminal defense.

Britney has a background as both a litigator and business professional. Before law school, she worked for several years at Google managing digital marketing campaigns for B2B companies. After law school, she gained extensive trial experience through her stint as an assistant public defender in Baltimore, where she represented hundreds of indigent clients.

“We are excited to have Britney join us at Bailey Glasser,” said Cary Joshi, a DC-based partner who heads the firm’s large Commercial and Environmental Litigation practice group. “Her range of experience covers the spectrum of trial, investigatory, and transactional work, meaning she offers our clients options and solutions on their most critical legal matters.”

A Michigan native, Britney received her undergraduate and law degrees from the University of Michigan. While earning her law degree, she served as the Chair of the Black Law Students Association, the Race and Curriculum Editor for the Michigan Journal of Race & Law, and as a Student Attorney for the Michigan Innocence Clinic.

Bailey Glasser President John Barrett said: “Britney has impressed us all as a superstar in the making, and her hiring supports our strategic focus in recruiting and retaining the best lawyers to help grow our Washington, DC office. And bringing her on in the midst of the pandemic reflects the strength of the firm as we continue to help our clients solve problems and realize opportunities.”

Britney will also serve on the firm’s diversity committee and on a team working to promote associate retention.
