Savanna Jones is an attorney based in Bailey Glasser's Washington, D.C. office and works in the firm's Civil Defense practice group. She is a graduate of the Georgetown University Law Center. During law school in 2022, Savanna served as an editor of the Georgetown Journal of Gender and the Law where she also wrote several articles.

Savanna's legal experience includes working as a Student Attorney with the Georgetown Criminal Defense and Prisoner Advocacy Clinic in which she represented indigent individuals in front of trial judges in D.C. and in front of the Parole Commission. Savanna has a passion for helping others which is what drew her to the law, and which brought her to Bailey Glasser.

Prior to entering law school, Savanna graduated summa cum laude from Utah State University where she was recognized as the Political Science Student of the Year and was a member of the Pi Sigma Alpha honor society. In her free time, Savanna enjoys rock climbing and pottery.
