

Frontier To Pay $11 Million In Settlement To Recipients Of Illegal Telemarketing Calls

01.25.2017

Frontier Communications has agreed to pay $11 million to settle a class action lawsuit brought by recipients of telephone calls they say violated the Telephone Consumer Protection Act. The calls were placed by automatic telephone dialing systems and to numbers that had been placed on the National Do Not Call Registry.

Each member of the settlement class will receive a $90 base payment, then the balance of the settlement fund will be divided on a per-call basis to class members who received multiple calls, making this one of the largest settlements in a TCPA case.

The settlement was featured in an article on Law 360.

Mey is represented by John W. Barrett of Bailey Glasser, Anthony I. Paronich and Edward A. Broderick of Broderick & Paronich PC, Nicholas J. Cicale of CEnergy Law and Matthew P. McCue of The Law Offices of Matthew P. McCue PC.

Attorneys

John W. Barrett

Practice Areas

Telephone Consumer Protection Act (TCPA)